

And there really is a silver lining

Good news for the environment. Thanks to infinite-loop material use and high-level recycling, cans are among the most eco-friendly packaging forms available today. Combine this with the weight reductions and energy-saving made possible by downgauging, and it's safe to say that modern cans significantly reduce our carbon footprint. Without being accused of having your head in the clouds.

Technology that keeps you ahead.

Soudronic